A Magnificent Showing of Easter Apparel

Gorgeous Display of Easter Millinery

Distinct Styles of Hats Especially For the Grand Easter Parade.

Great in variety, exquisite in taste. These are the marks that distinguish our millinery. Just now the millinery department of The Big Store is at its best. All the new creations of the country's best designers are being produced and shown just before Easter, and at prices, too, that you will say were never so reasonable. We have prepared especially for Easter and in making these hats we have used only such designs as are proving the most popular among the fashionable dressers in the bigger cities. It's The Big Store's aim to give its patrons just as good a selection as can be found in any big town, and better than can be found at home. That's one reason why Mace & Co. always excel.

Our Own Exclusive and Original Ideas of Hats

Taking our inspiration from models, the best that Parisian designers could do, we have produced a line of trimmed hats, that for beauty they have no comparison. Everybody thinks so.

You will see in our millinery department hats that are positively exclusive in those very smart and ever popular sailors, the new type of turbans, the Tricorne, all descriptions of trimmed hats, tailored and street hats and a magnificent showing of hats for children.

CHAPTER III
A PONDEROUS coach lumbered slowly almost painfully along the narrow road that skirted the base of a mountain. It was drawn by four horses and upon the seat were two rough-looking Russians, one holding the reins, the other riding back in the rear. The horses were June-bred, tall, and well-groomed, soft and sweet and lutures. To the right lay a turbulent mountain stream, babbling merrily with the iron waters of the flood season. Ahead of the creaking coach rode four horsemen all heavily armed; another quartet followed some distance in the rear. At the side of the coach an officer of the Russian mounted police was riding easily, jingling his accoutrements with a vigor that disconcerted at least one occupant of the vehicle. The windows of the coach doors were lowered, permitting the fresh mountain air to cool the flushed faces of the young women who tried to find comfort in one of the broad seats. Since early morning she had struggled with the hardships of that seat and the late afternoon found her very much out of practice. The opposite seat was the resting place of a substantial-colored woman and a stupendous pile of bags and boxes. The boxes were continually toppling over and the bugs were forever getting under the feet of the once placid servants, who were quite unable to much about it. They reflected the hunger and thirst of others through the practice of abstinence.

"How much farther have we to go?" Beverly asked, looking out the rear-seat windows even humbly. The man was very deliberate with his English. He had been recommended to her as the best linguist in the service, but he was a bit of a bore and he had a repulsion to system.

It another hour is but yet he managed to inform her with a confident smile.

"Oh dear!" she sighed, "a whole hour of this."

"We soon be dar, Miss Beverly. Yes you up re wint to see us like us we. But the faithful old colored woman's adieu was lost in the wither examination that accompanied an other dislodgment of bags and boxes. The wheels of the coach had dropped suddenly into a deep rut. Aunt Fann's arms were scarcely more robust than poor Miss Beverly's.

It is getting worse and worse, especially when I'm not in the saddle. I'm black and blue from head to foot, thanks you, Aunt Fann."

"We can't get to blue, Miss Beverly. It's a most monstrous bad road she nough. Stay up dar will yo," she concluded, jamming a bug into an upper corner.

Miss Calhoun, tourist extraordinaire, consulted the lugubrious in the saddle. She knew at the outset that the quest would be hopeless, but she could think of no better way to pass the next hour than to extract a mite of information from the others.

"Now for a good effort!" she said, becoming a smile upon the crumpled bus. "Is there a decent hotel in the village?" she asked.

They were on the edge of the village before she succeeded in finding out all that she could. It was not a good day either. She learned that the town of Bokh was in Aspasia's search a mile from the Graustark line. There was no hotel, no place to house on the main street, and the population of the place did not exceed 200.

When Miss Beverly awoke the next morning sore and distressed, she took her place upon the night with a humor that she had been kind enough to let temporarily intervene. The wretched, hasty-living girl in her secret cage of iron and steel. Her bed was not a bed, it was a torture. The room, ugly though it was, had no windows, but the light was good, and it was the good old colored woman's grumbling that awoke Miss Beverly. The sun was climbing up the mountains in the east, and there was an air of great activity about the place. Beverly's watch told her that it was past 6 o'clock.

"Good gracious!" she exclaimed. "It's nearly noon, Aunt Fann. Hurry along here and see what we do. We must leave this town in time to catch the 1:15 train."

"I don't know what to do," said Aunt Fann. "I'm afraid that I'll be late, but I have the train to catch."

"Well, Aunt Fann, you can run along and have the woman put up a bill for us, and we'll get it on the train. I'll go back to get it on the train, and then we'll catch the 1:15 train."

"Very well, Aunt Fann, you can run along and have the woman put up a bill for us, and we'll get it on the train. I'll go back to get it on the train, and then we'll catch the 1:15 train."

As the big coach crawled up the mountain road and far into the opposite solitude of the unknown, the woman in the seat was quite ready to start. She had been warned of the presence of brigands in the wild mountain passes, and a certain apprehension passed over her. The sun had begun to go farther than Con-look, because of a cool effect from the hills forbidding the nearer approach of armed forces. At that town, however, she was sure she easily could obtain an escort of Graustarkers should

NOW FOR THE FINAL EASTER PREPARATIONS

W-M Co.

S FURNISHERS of stylish apparel we are prepared to serve you intelligently and satisfactorily. To be served satisfactorily at Easter time is of great importance to those who have planned to join the great yearly style parade. In selecting your Easter gown, hat or wrap you want to feel of all times of the year, that your selection will be, not only exclusive but possess several distinguishing style attributes that will be instantly recognized as the ear marks of good taste.

A great majority of ready-to-wear garments—millinery too, for that matter—proclaim the source of their origin; there's a lack of finished excellence, elegance and workmanship that always suggests to the wearer deficiencies that make one ill at ease.

Whatever you select here you have the satisfaction of knowing it's right in style, superior in finish, and equal to any made to measure apparel.

While these thoughts are a source of satisfaction, there's another strong buying incentive that will appeal to you. The Wright-Metzler Company garments cost no more and often less than inferior productions elsewhere.

Don't put off buying until the last day for although errors are not likely to occur owing to our perfect organization. It is far more satisfactory to us and to you that you should make your selections as early as possible.

Wright-Metzler Co., Footwear Critically Correct For Easter

There has been many a man and woman remarked to themselves within the past week: "I'll have to get a pair of shoes by Easter."

We wonder if these people thought further, if they considered that the shoe they contemplate buying within the present week could either "make" or "mar" the pleasure of Easter for them. If they did not consider this, it is nevertheless true; for if they should get a shoe made over an incorrectly shaped last, or if through the fact that the store they patronized was not equipped with the exact width they required and sold them a shoe too narrow or too wide, or if some kind friend should inform them that the style was incorrect and for many other reasons as potent, it would tend to dampen the exultant feeling that seems to permeate a person when they are sure that their attire is correct in every detail.

The growth of our shoe business is entirely due to the following facts:

- 1st.—Close and critical buying which results in our selling supremacy.
- 2nd.—Our enviable selection of leathers which results in the long life of our shoes.
- 3rd.—Our ever watchful and vigilant care as to correctness in every detail of style and workmanship.
- 4th.—That we positively carry over no shoes from one season to another.
- 5th.—We buy direct from manufacturers giving you a large percentage.

The very bulk of our shoe business testifies to the absolute truth of these five statements which form a quintet of the strongest buying incentives possible to give.

Our shoe section offers every style in every width, every size and made in every shape that the ultra-fashionable world demands.

A Man can buy shoes in lace, button or blucher from $1.00 to $5.00

A Woman can buy shoes in lace, button or blucher from $1.25 to $5.00

A Child can buy shoes in lace, button or blucher from 25c to $2.50

Reasons for the Pre-eminence of Wright Metzler Co., Clothing

Those familiar with clothing trade facts recognize as a masterful accomplishment the tremendous growth of the Wright-Metzler Company clothing business during the past two years. Men do not pass by several good clothing stores and come up to our second floor without a cause.

Strong, decisive, positive causes exist; reasons that preclude any peradventure. They are best known by and frequently the despair of our strongest competitors.

There are always special features, extra handwork at some points, inside staving done with higher grade interlining so that permanent shapeliness is secured without the unpleasant stiffness of cheap starching. Of course, this particular betterness is most fully proven by the good wear that Wright-Metzler garments always give, but it is self evident in the new suits too. The shape, finish, the very "feel" of them, tell of the more careful, more skilled workmanship.

Chiefest Point of All

With all this careful selection, this unusual workmanship, this exceptional style and character, Wright-Metzler Company clothing is marked at the most popular prices.

Here are the smartest, handsomest clothes that a man can desire; here is clothing at the lowest prices that any careful man would risk paying; and he can be certain of their quality and the good service they will render him.

That is why this clothing business has grown so splendidly, that is why no man knows how much he overpays for his clothing, until he knows all about Wright-Metzler Company clothing.
